Busy Yet?

“You will wonder how you kept track of anything before PIMSY.” – Catherine C., Systems Administrator

Between Seasonal Affective Disorder + clients recovering from holiday indulgence and trying to process family drama + insurance authorizations updating – January can be a very busy time for mental health! Here’s how your workload could be easier if you were using PIMSY:

Reporting

PIMSY is able to capture more centralized data per client encounter, thereby making it possible to provide a greater selection of reports without requiring duplicate data entry. With PIMSY, you can see all the analytics you care about at-a-glance.

PIMSY generates reports that provide data such as:

- > how many times a client no-showed or cancelled
- > the number of notes created to date with a particular provider and billing code
- > which clients have not been seen in a particular time period
- > all the documents uploaded for your client (including insurance

Happy New Year to you & yours!

To your success!
