Ditch the portals and unchain your biller!

Learn how to automate your billing process and free your biller up for more important tasks than keying

One of the most efficient ways to get paid is having a documentation process that allows billing to be automated. You want to have your biller available to:

- process pre-approvals
- follow up on denials
- stay on top of credentialing and enrollment

If your biller is busy keying all day, there's no time for these essential tasks! The ideal situation is to have your billing automated so your staff is free to make sure: your agency's properly enrolled, clients are approved for services, and denials are followed up on.
